282 STUDENTS ARE ENROLLED

HIGH SCHOOL FIGURES ANNOUNCED TODAY.

MORE WILL ATTEND

Beginning Freshman Class Will Probably Be Largest Of Any—School Will Start Monday.

Two hundred and eighty-two students have enrolled in the Maryville High School, according to an announcement made by L. L. St. Clair, principal, who spent some time this morning at the school building tabulating final figures on the freshmen-sophomore enrollment of yesterday, in addition to the junior-senior enrollment of the day before.

One hundred and fifty enrolled in the freshmen-sophomore classes yesterday. Eighty-three were freshmen; sixty-one were beginning and twenty-two were advanced. There were sixty-seven sophomore; fifty-one beginning and sixteen advanced.

The following is the complete list of figures as a result of the two day enrollment period:

Thursday 132.—Seniors, 63; Beginning, 47; Advanced, 16.

Juniors, 69; Beginning, 52; Advanced 17.

Friday 150.—Sophomores 67; Beginning, 51; Advanced 16.

Freshmen 83; Beginning 61; Advanced, 22.

There is indication that the beginning freshmen class will be accredited the honor class of the high school in the number of students enrolled in that particular group. The beginning sophomores and the beginning juniors are leading a close race in number and with the increases of enrollment next week probably one of the two will be honored with second in number.

In reviewing the student record book in his office this morning, Mr. St. Clair finds that there are thirteen seniors who have not as yet reported and signed up. They are expected to report Monday morning which will increase the senior number to a great extent. There are also students of former years in various other classes who have announced their intention of attending High School again this year who are yet to report.

Three hundred and seventy eight enrolled in the high school last Fall and three hundred and thirty in the mid-year of January 1925. Figures for this year's enrollment, while it will not go over the top, will at least hold its own, not exceeding former years.

High school will start Monday morning at 8:30 o'clock. All grade students are to report at 9.

The reinforced concrete paving completed on Fillmore street between Second and Fourth streets by the Cook & O'Brien Construction Co., recently was accepted by the council.

The application of I. E. Tulloch to erect an electric sign in front of his place of business on North Main street was acted on favorably by the commissioners. The council adjourned to meet again September 8.

AUXILIARY TO SPANISH VETS

ORGANIZATION TO BE FORMED MONDAY NIGHT.

CHARTER IS APPROVED

Large Membership in Auxiliary to Roosevelt Camp Is Expected—To Elect Officers Then.

Women relatives of Spanish War Veterans will meet at 7:30 o'clock Monday evening at the V. F. W. rooms for the purpose of organizing an auxiliary to Roosevelt Camp No. 24 of the United Spanish War Veterans.

The petition for the charter has been approved and the women will meet to effect an organization and elect officers. Those eligible to become members are wives, mothers, sisters, daughters and nieces of Spanish-American War Veterans. According to the commander of the United Spanish-American War Veterans here, Harry D. Snyder, the Roosevelt Camp at the present time has a membership of more than thirty and with their women relatives, and sisters and mothers of other Spanish-American War Veterans the Auxiliary is expected to organize with a large membership.

The purpose of the Auxiliary is to give aid and all assistance possible to Spanish War Veterans and their widows and orphans, to help the veterans in their work, promote patriotism and respect for the flag and participate in patriotic observances.

Roosevelt Camp will meet Monday night at the V. F. W. rooms at the same time the Auxiliary is formed. Commander Snyder has been authorized to institute the Auxiliary, and while the committee has not been able to see all the women eligible to membership, he said this morning it is hoped that all who are eligible will attend the meeting and become charter members, to assist in the organization and election.

The other Veterans' organization of the city, American Legion, V. F. W. and G. A. R., already have auxiliaries, and since Maryville is to entertain the state U. S. A. W. V. encampment next June, a strong auxiliary here is necessary to help the Spanish War Veterans in making the encampment a success. Several members of the G. A. R. are honorary members of the Roosevelt Camp and are also invited to be present Monday night.

No Fires Here for About Six Weeks

Last Alarm Was Just One Month Ago Today—Twenty-eight So Far This Year.

It has been just one month today since the Maryville fire department has answered an alarm—and then there was no fire!

Maryville had its last fire about six weeks ago and that was the only one during July, so "Fire Prevention Week," still several weeks away, is already bearing fruit in the way of less fires in this city.

Maryville has had twenty-eight fires so far this year. January and March were in the lead with five each. There were four in February, four in April, four in May, four in June and one in July. Sparks from chimneys seemed to have caused the most of them. This is the general rule throughout the year.

Petit Jurors Are To Be Drawn Next Week

Regular September Session of County Court Is Set for Monday—No Grand Jury This Term.

The judges of the county court will convene Monday for the regular September session. Besides the routine business that comes before the court each month there will be the drawing of petit jurors and alternates for the October term of the Nodaway County Circuit Court.

George Pat Wright, prosecuting attorney, said this morning he did not think that he would call for a grand jury at this term of the circuit court. The hearing of road and bridge cases will also be brought before the county court at its session next week.

Eudora School Is Now Being Enlarged

The Eudora rural school is making changes in the building this fall that will bring the school in a position to be classed as a first class rural school, according to Leslie G. Somerville, county superintendent, who made a visit to the school yesterday.

The building is being enlarged by moving the west wall out eight feet. Window lights are being placed on the east and south sides of the building and the inside of the school room is to be finished with cream colored walls and a tan colored ceiling.

GOOD RAIN IS NEEDED HERE

CORN CROP IS BEGINNING TO SUFFER.

96 AT 1 O'CLOCK

High Temperatures So Far This Month Average 94 Degrees, According To J. R. Brink.

Nodaway County's prospects for the biggest corn crop in history are being endangered by the hot dry spell for the last ten days. Many fields of corn throughout the county are showing the effect of the burning sun and considerable of corn is becoming fired.

The average of the daily maximum temperature during September is 94 degrees, according to the records kept by J. R. Brink. The temperature at 1 o'clock this afternoon was 96, according to Mr. Brink's thermometer. The reading of the maximums for each day during the present month follow:

September 1, 89; 2—94; 3—97; 4—96; 5—96.

A good rain right now would help wonderfully to revive the county's chief crop and unless there is some precipitation soon the yield will be diminished considerably. It is the opinion of the county agent, J. Ross Fleetwood, that the lack of rain and the hot weather has cut the yield perceptably. The ears are drying up and not filling up as they should, the county agent says, and rain is greatly needed.

Those fields of corn, that were in the hail storm belts are showing the need of rain, and there are a few fields between here and Wilcox, hit rather hard by hail, but which would have developed under suitable conditions, that have been hurt by the drouth.

Mr. Fleetwood remarked that a rain would boost the pastures along and help the alfalfa and clover fields that are suffering for moisture.

Start Search for Slayer-Kidnapper

6-Year-Old New Jersey Girl Is Missing And Taxi Driver Is Found In Woods Slain.

Montclair, N. J., Sept. 5.—Local and state police joined forces today in their search for the brutal murderer-kidnapper of Mary Daly, 6, who was taken in front of her home here. The kidnapper is believed to have shot and killed Raymond Pierce, negro taxidriver, and stolen the latter's car for escape. Pierce's body was found in the woods but no sign of the pair has been discovered.

Some officers expressed the belief that the kidnapper and murderer might have been Phillip Knapp, "the third murderer," wanted for the cold blooded murder of Louis Panelli, Long Island taxidriver.

Texas Land Flooded By Rising Waters

Three Thousand Acres Are Inundated —More Levee Stretches Are Being Menaced.

El Paso, Sept. 5.—Crashing through the levees in a dozen places, flood waters of the Rio Grande spread over 3,000 acres of El Paso valley farm lands during the night near Fabens, Texas.

No accurate estimate of damage available today and reports from the flood zone indicated that the river was menacing additional stretches of the levee.

At least 6 per cent of the cultivated cotton land in the valley south of here was under water today while two hundred men worked desperately to check the threatening waters.

15 AT OUTDOOR B. B. MEETING

BASKETBALL SCHEDULE COMMITTEE IS APPOINTED

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

Is Annual Meeting of Nodaway County Outdoor Basketball League—Board Control Elected.

Fifteen high school instructors, representing the fifteen high schools in the county, attended the annual meeting of the Nodaway County Outdoor Basketball League at the courthouse this afternoon.

A scheduling committee, J. N. Geyer, A. M. Burch and V. G. Robertson, was appointed by Leslie G. Somerville, county superintendent of schools, who is president of the League, to set a date for the schedule of games to be played and the date for the outdoor tournament to decide the county boys and girls championship teams. The Outdoor League is comprised of high schools that do not have a football team. The only high school in the county that is not a member is the Maryville High School.

At an early hour this afternoon it was the opinion of those comprising the schedule committee that the schedule should commence on September 18, but this date may be changed before definite arrangements are made. The schedule will be for both boys and girls teams. Conception Junction and Harmony High Schools are the only institutions that will not enter both boys and girls teams, these schools just entering a boys team. The Hopkins High School will not enter its teams either in the schedule of games or in the tournament.

L. L. Livengood of Elmo was elected vice-president of the Nodaway County Basketball Outdoor League and Ed Adams of Barnard was elected secretary and treasurer. The three members who were elected to the board of control are Harry B. Rutledge of Burlington Junction, L. L. Livengood, Elmo; and Hubert Garrett of Quitman.

Those present at the meeting and the schools they represented:

L. L. Livengood and Garland Miller, Elmo; V. G. Robertson, Quitman; Ed Adams, Barnard; Halley Ford, Harmony; Orville Sutterlin, Conception Junction; J. N. Geyer, Pickering; A. M. Burch, Parnell; Harry B. Rutledge and Claude Thompson, Burlington Junction; John Querry, Hopkins; Harry Nelson, Parnell; Charles W. Wallace, Graham; John Hollar, Skidmore; and Alfred Walton, Ravenwood.

Two Are Injured In Alabama Blaze

Fire At Shreveport Is Finally Brought Under Control—Twenty Blocks Are Destroyed.

Shreveport, Ala., Sept. 5.—Fire originating in the home of C. C. Childress late last night was brought under control early today after it had destroyed almost the entire residential section of the Allendale district, with an estimated loss of $500,000.

Two persons are reported to have been slightly injured. About twenty blocks of frame buildings were destroyed.

No Word Yet From Missing PB-9 Plane

Disabled Patrol Plane Is Being Towed In From Hawaiian Waters— Hopes Dashed Again.

San Francisco, Sept. 5.—Hopes revived from word from the searching fleet that a plane was being towed in were dashed when it was discovered that the one being towed was a disabled patrol plane and not the big PB-9, missing in Hawaiian waters.

Officials frankly admitted, as the hunt entered upon the fifth day, that the chances of finding the plane and its crew of five are wellnigh hopeless.

The theory that the plane plunged beneath the waters of the Pacific when it came down in the storm last Tuesday gained support among the watchers.

PURDY DOCTOR IS ARRESTED

CHARGED WITH MAKING FALSE AFFIDAVITS.

STUDENTS TELL STORY

Are Thought To Have Disclosed System By Which Horton Used "Influence" With State Board.

Kansas City, Sept. 5.—Dr. Ray B. Horton was arrested this afternoon in Purdy, Mo., on orders from Forrest W. Hanna, Jackson County prosecutor.

The arrest was made on information charging Dr. Horton with making false affidavits to obtain medical license in Missouri.

The warrant embracing these charges is being prepared by Mr. Hanna this afternoon and Dr. Horton will be brought to Kansas City immediately and the warrant served on him.

The evidence upon which the information is based was submitted today by two young men, who are said to have sought license through the alleged "Horton-Enloe route" of special examinations.

The two witnesses were taken before the prosecutor by James R. Page, attorney for the Kansas City College of Medicine and Surgery of which they are graduates and which was blacklisted by the state board of health.

The two witnesses are said to have revealed to the prosecutor the system said to have been used by Dr. Horton in obtaining permission for graduates of the Kansas City school to take special examinations before him.

Three More Die In St. Louis Heat Wave

St. Louis, Sept. 5.—Three more persons died within forty minutes today, victims of St. Louis scorching heat wave that has claimed a total of eleven lives in seventy-two hours. Ambulances are clanging about the city as dozens of prostrations continue. The mercury is still around the 100 mark.

Bodies of Three Victims of Shenandoah Disaster Arrive in Washington —Others Due Tomorrow.

Washington, Sept. 5.—The bodies of three of the victims of the Shenandoah disaster, Lieut.-Com. Zachary Landsdowne, Lieut. J. D. Lawrence, and Lieut. E. W. Sheppard, arrived in Washington today from Caldwell, Ohio, and were taken to the receiving vault at Arlington national cemetery.

The body of Lieut. Louis Hancock is due to reach here tomorrow. Funeral services will be held at Arlington Tuesday. There will be a guard of honor of a company of bluejackets and a company of marines. The four officers will be buried in the Dewey section of the cemetery, near the grave of Commander Louis Maxwell, who was killed in the wreck of the dirigible ZR2 in England.

Caldwell, Ohio., Sept. 5.—An appeal to the country to stand behind the navy department in the Shenandoah disaster was made here today by Capt. George Washington Steele upon his arrival to take charge of the investigation into the great air disaster which claimed fourteen lives and destroyed the dirigible Thursday morning.

Captain Steele is commandant of the naval air station at Lakehurst.

Steele arrived here this morning, accompanied by Commander Jacob Klein and a staff of naval officers.

"There is no time to quit," Captain Steele declared. "We must go through with this policy or the dead of the Shenandoah will have died in vain, but we must have the support of the public and the press."

Captain Steele expressed the opinion that the wreck of the Shenandoah was unavoidable. He deplored the attitude of criticism taken in the editorial columns of some newspapers.

"Yesterday, a Columbus newspaper carried about a column on what it called 'Those Million Dollar Experiments of the Navy at Ava.' This is deplorable and should be discouraged," Captain Steele continued.

The raid upon the Shenandoah by souvenir-hunters was outrageous, Steele pointed out. He said that the department of justice may be asked to bring to justice those who took material from the big ship and carried off parts of the dirigible.

Captain Steele said that he would start his investigation immediately.

Body of Man Found Burned In Sedan

Clothing Burned Off And All Means Of Identification Destroyed—Police Start Inquiry.

New York, Sept. 5.—The body of a man believed to have been murdered, then set afire to prevent identification, was found today in a sedan by police.

The officers made the gruesome find after officers had worked for twenty minutes in trying to extinguish flames which destroyed the interior of the car.

The man's clothing had been burned off and fire apparently had destroyed all means of identification.

Officers were placed on guard over the body until medical authorities arrived to investigate in hopes of determining the means by which he meant death. The possibility that the man might not have been dead when the car was set ablaze also entertained by police.

Another Body Found In Theater Ruins

Kansas City, Sept. 5.—Workmen digging on the site of the Gillis Theater destroyed by fire June 25, found the charred remnants of a human body today. Five bodies were recovered from the ruins of the theater shortly after the fire.

Maurice Berg underwent a tonsil operation at St. Francis Hospital this morning.

THE ONLY DAILY PAPER IN NODAWAY COUNTY

A WEAKNESS OF SOCIETY.

That there is "honor among thieves" is a phenomenon as old as crime itself. That criminals should deem themselves powerful enough to enforce upon the law-abiding element of society respect for themselves and their sense of ethics indicates a presumption and an arrogance which will be countenanced only at the peril of the most vital foundations of society itself.

It is well known that there exists gangs of outlaws so strong as to be able to terrorize whole communities, especially in large cities, into silence akin to subjugation. The authorities carry on a losing war against them. It has been demonstrated again and again that respectable and law-abiding persons inform against these criminals at peril of their lives.

An incident in point, which is still fresh in the minds of all, is the murder of the man and woman, who furnished the information resulting in the arrest and conviction of the notorious Gerald Chapman. The informers were slain by Chapman's "pal" to avenge Chapman's arrest.

This sort of thing should be impossible in a well-regulated society, designed to uphold the law and order at whatever cost to the criminal element in its midst. To make it impossible society itself must take thought of the illogical and unreasonable position into which it has allowed crime and criminals to thrust it.

Society works much harm upon itself when it feels toward the informer against the murderer and bandit much as the school-boy feels toward the "squealer."

OUR BROKEN-DOWN LEGAL MACHINERY.

(Kansas City Times).

The principal influence that makes for an indefinite administration of justice is our cumbersome, archaic and inefficient system of criminal procedure, with the glorification of technicality and formalism, which it fosters and maintains. The effect of this system, with its inevitable delays and defeats of justice, is also to create a flabby, as compared with a stern and vigorous, sense of justice on the part of public officials and the public generally.—Herbert S. Hadley, chancellor of Washington university.

This and much beside was said by Chancellor Hadley in a recent address before the criminal section of the American Bar Association. In general the address was a reiteration of the speaker's well known and persistent views in favor of a more direct and effective system of procedure in criminal cases. Also it reflected a growing impatience manifested in the legal profession, in the courts, in law enforcement circles, and especially in the journalistic field, with the handicaps encountered in the antiquated legal machinary, which is almost hopeless in coping with crime and crime tendencies of the time. Indeed, crime and its tendencies, in the opinion of students of the subject, may be traced largely to the inadequacy of this very system.

As Chancellor Hadley pointed out, our system of of criminal procedure is more than two hundred years old. Being basically unchanged, it has grown worse instead of better. Instead of being a terror to lawbreakers, it is regarded with flippancy by them and has become a mine of obstructive and nullifying material for the criminal lawyer.

Admittedly this old system was founded to prevent oppression, to insure a fair trial for those who might be victims of persecution. That basis no longer is tenable. Gratuitous or vengeful official oppression would be impossible today "with the readiness of our newspapers to investigate charges of "oppression, with the large number of "social workers always interested in "the welfare of prisoners and with the "right of the courts and executives to 'grant paroles and of the executives to "grant pardons," to quote Chancellor Hadley further.

As Judge Lyle of the Chicago municipal court said the other day, the law is intended to protect the people, not the criminal. But the criminal has had all the best of it. He has been preposterously sheltered by the outworn safeguards put about him by law and practice. Times have changed, the world has progressed, and the old machinery has been discarded except only the machinery of justice, and it has become about as useless as the first steam engine would be beside the modern locomotive or the old hand cradle would be beside the harvester of today).

STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTER

By Charles P. Stewart
NEA Service Writer.

Washington—Major William E. R. Covell, assistant to Engineer Commissioner James Franklin Bell of the District of Columbia, knows more about city traffic, afoot and awheel, than anybody in the world.

He has just finished a survey of it, in Washington, for the district commissioners, and for thoroughness it never was equalled in history.

While it was limited to the capital, most of the conditions it revealed are common to all big cities, at any rate in the United States.

Some time ago Congress passed a bill authorizing Washington's various street car and autobus lines to merge. The commissioners wanted to know if it were desirable to go ahead and merge them.

They had to find out all about traffic first, to decide.

That was the survey's Genesis.

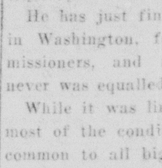
Covell was put in charge. He's thorough by nature. He had plenty of money—$50,000—to do a good job. And the despotic form of the district's government provided him with an excellent machine for his work.

More pedestrians are hit by autos between 8 and 9 p. m. than at any other time of day or night. Presumably this is because visibility is low, but hasn't been low long enough for autoists and pedestrians to get used to it.

Besides, it's an hour when most people are bent on pleasure and therefore careless.

Eleven to noon is the peak hour for autos to hit fixed objects—as their drivers are scooting home for lunch.

But the rush hour is from 5 to 6, because more people go home to dinner than to lunch. That's when most autos collide. These are some of the things Covell ascertained.



TOM SIMS SAYS

Swatting flies is better exercise than cussing the government and helps things along more.

What we need is an auto that will stop and count a hundred before hitting a telephone pole.

Just around the Corner

EVEN big-city folks must have their "neighborhood stores"! Most of them would no more think of going down town to fight their way through the crowds in search of a roast for dinner than they would of walking to the factory to get a pair of shoes.

City women know that their neighborhood stores can supply them just what they want — and that, in most cases, the service is more alert and friendly.

The same thing is true of this "neighborhood". Our merchants—the men whose ads you read in this paper —are in position to furnish your home with the best and most popular brands of goods. Not only can they save you money, but they gladly relieve you of a lot of worry and loss of time.

WHY
Home Killed Beef
IS BETTER

When we make the statement that our home-killed beef is more uniform in quality than shipped-in meat it is not a mere assertion. When we buy livestock we know exactly what we are getting, the age and the condition of the animal. No matter how fat an animal may be if the condition is not just right at time of butchering the meat will be of an inferior quality. It is our aim at all times to kill only the best of native yearlings. We have tried both methods of buying and it was only after a number of years of experimenting that we decided the only way we could absolutely guarantee the quality of every piece of meat that we sold was by doing our own butchering. In this manner we eliminate the middle man's profit and the expense of shipping which permits us to give you a better quality of meat for less money.

This does not mean that our prices per pound are always lower since you can buy any price beef you wish from the packers ranging from six to twenty cents per pound.

Offered To The God of Chance

It is indeed strange that men who have devoted the greater part of their lives to the support and happiness of their families, men who have saved and invested carefully, who have carried insurance for years, who, in fact, have taken their greatest satisfaction in the welfare of their loved ones, it is surely strange that such men should offer up their life's work to the God of Chance. Yet when they make no Will, provide no careful administration for their estates, that is what they do. And Chance is not always kind to heirs.

As a careful business man, as the head of a family, have your lawyer draw your Will now before Chance can interfere. Our trust officers are at your service if you wish to consult them—at your own convenience.

"Bryan Was Not A Klansman"

Washington, Sept. 5.—Aroused by Ku Klux Klan demonstrations in memory of William J. Bryan and implications that he was a member, friends who followed the Commoner in his presidential campaigns yesterday made public here flat denials by members of the family that Mr. Bryan ever belonged to the klan or any similar organization.

The denials are embraced in two letters, one from W. E. Thompson, Mrs. Bryan's secretary, publication of which has been inspired by devoted followers of Mr. Bryan who resent what they characterize as an attempt by klan leaders to capitalize the name of the Commoner. One of these admirers is W. W. Durbin of Kenton, O., former chairman of the Ohio Democratic state committee.

Coats Flare

The hemline of the newest cloth and fur coats shows the flare that is so necessary on new frocks. With the full hemline, coats themselves are shorter and slightly nipped in at the waistline.

Novel Sash

Here is a novel sash that would be quite enough for any frock in the way of ornamentation. It is made of velvet ribbon and attached in a lattice work arrangement which makes it very flat and distinctive.

Funny Farewells

Whatever dallying may have preceded it, the actual parting of a Briton and his sweetheart is usually sealed with a kiss. To us this seems the natural thing to do, but other nations have different ideas.

The Turkish lover bows low, his hands crossed reverently on his breast. This is a dignified farewell compared with that of the amorous Japanese, who, on leaving his sweetheart, removes a slipper and brandishes it in the air. Lovers in New Guinea have the pleasing habit on parting of exchanging slabs of chocolate, while the lovesick man of the Philippine isles vigorously rubs his sweetheart's cheeks before leaving her.

English Bird Sanctuary

Selsdon sanctuary for birds and flowers which is being handed over to the National Trust comprises 120 acres of beautiful woodland in the chalk hills of Surrey. There are no fewer than 73 different kinds of birds in the sanctuary. This district, which is but 12 miles from the metropolis, is rapidly developing, and the committee of the Commons and Footpaths Preservation society, who are the prime movers in the scheme, recalled the prime minister's words emphasizing the need of sanctuaries if any of the wild life of the country is to be preserved near to the large and growing centers of population.—London Mail.

LOG OF THE SHENANDOAH

CHRONOLOGY, WRITTEN TO MOMENT OF CRASH, IS FOUND.

TELLS OF STRUGGLE

With Last Sentence Incomplete, Remarkable Volume Tells of Approach of Storm.

Pleasant City, O., Sept. 5.—The radio log of the ill-fated Shenandoah was found in a field not far from the control cabin in which Commander Zachary Lansdowne and six others met death. It was found by H. D. Flanagan and turned over to Commander Jacob H. Klein, in charge of the investigation into the accident that befell the huge airship.

The log is in two volumes, leather bound.

It gave a detailed account of the preparations before sailing, of the buoyancy test proving O. K., and of the final test before setting off at 4:02 o'clock, Wednesday afternoon, September 2. It tells of the flight over Philadelphia and of going higher up to scale Laurel mountains. The gay spirits of the crew were cited early in the evening when "everything was working fine." The entries then run:

"9:30 p. m.—Received baseball scores of afternoon games, news of the world from Europe and various points in North America. News is flashed to members of the crew.

Think of Children at Home.

"Chambersburg below looks like a picture under a Christmas tree, and we think of the kiddies at home and wonder if they are all asleep. Throw kisses to Tom and Billy from the ship in the air.

"Deep valley and high mountains greet us, but as long as we stay up we should worry about what is below us. See lightning to the south of us, but the sky is clear and we can view the earth below without trouble.

"Crossing Pennsylvania and its beautiful farms, but we cannot see their beauty owing to the darkness, but hope for better things tomorrow, when we can see the earth.

"Strike national highway lane near Uniontown and our bearings show that we are an hour in advance of proposed schedule. Everything working fine. Radio gathers concerts from Pittsburgh and Cleveland, which are enjoyed by the crew.

Into the Darkness.

"1:15 a. m.—Pass over Washington, Pa., and come down a little owing to the lowering hills and mountains and find darkness is increasing. Take bearings and find that we are in direct line for Wheeling, where we have orders to drop and circle city, if weather permits.

"1:35 a. m.—Get glimpse of lights from Wheeling steel mills in the distance and pick our course across center of city as we drop and decide that circling is not practical, owing to dense visibility.

"1:55 a. m.(Standard time)—Pass over Wheeling and cross Ohio River, being greeted with whistles and bells as we cross city and view red flares set off on top high hill. We return honors by lighting up the ship from stem to stern.

"2:10 a. m.—Follow valley westward through Ohio and see lightning flashes directly ahead. Take higher elevation and find that visibility is bad.

"2:30 a. m.—Strike strong headwinds and see storms both northwest and southwest in distance. Believe that we can ride them without trouble and bear straight westward.

"3:15 a. m.—Storm increasing in intensity and ship pitches heavily. Pass over Lore City, O., and steer toward Cambridge, northwest, to avoid storm directly ahead.

"3:30 a. m.—See Cambridge in distance and make little headway as result of strong headwinds. Storm worst we have encountered to date.

Dodge To Southward.

"4:20 a. m.—Pass over Byesville, O., after battling storm more than half hour and decide to steer south to get out of direct wind. Trouble with radio, will not pick up messages—effort to repair it unsuccessful.

"4:55 a. m.—Members of crew called from gondola pit and sent into runway to aid in keeping ship on even keel. Commander orders care in changing course. All engines working perfectly. Unable to gain headway in wind. Lightning increasing in intensity. Hope to ride out storm soon. Unable to get radio to function.

"Pleasant City seen in distance observations taken; off course thirty miles south.

"Order to throw off gasoline tanks given and complied with, but does not aid stability. Radio no better, wind increasing in volume, get chance to—"

Strikers-Operators Conference On Again

Will Attempt To Iron Out Difference Regarding Maintenance Forces In Abandoned Mines.

Philadelphia, Sept. 5.—Representatives of the striking anthracite miners and operators will meet at Hazleton this afternoon to iron out differences that have arisen over the agreement for maintenance forces in the mines, it was announced here today.

"Everything is quiet" is the way John L. Lewis, president of the mine workers union, summed up the strike situation.

"After we adjust the little differences that have arisen over maintance men, I imagine everything will quiet and serene," Lewis added.

The operators, it was learned, holding secret conferences here also daily. No word has leaked out as what plans are being discussed.

ABOUT COWS FAILING IN MILK?

"What's the use of my listening to all the talk about what's best for my cows?

"Milk scales and record sheets speak louder to me than any talk.

"I weigh my milk, and I keep track of my feed cost. That's why I feed Purina Cow Chow. If Cow Chow didn't give me more milk at less cost, I wouldn't use it!

"And here's another point. Lots of folks think it's all right to wait until November or December and then try to bring up the milk by shoving in the feed—but it doesn't work. The milk you get in December depends on how you feed in August. The time to put your cows on Cow Chow is right now!"

Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, Sept. 5.—Grains were generally lower on the Board of Trade today. A final spurt of short covering boosted distant corn futures to a fractional higher finish. Wheat dropped sharply, all deliveries going into new low ground on the present down turn. The undertone was unsettled. Prices firmed up for a brief spell following the initial dip when shorts became active.
Corn held fairly stronger.
Oats were neglected.
Provisions market dropped slightly in sympathy with hogs and weakened wheat.

Butterfly Migration Puzzles Scientists

Year after year millions of butterflies leave their breeding grounds in the South and fly northward. Those that travel the greatest distance cover about 4,000 miles.

They are found on the southern shores of the Mediterranean about April and reach England towards the end of May. Many still continue to fly northward, arriving in Scotland about mid-June, and eventually reaching Iceland in July. According to M. C. B. Williams, chief entomologist to the Egyptian ministry of agriculture, they originate from south of the great desert belt that crosses Africa and western Asia.

These butterflies have never been seen making the return journey, and it is a mystery how every year swarms leave Africa and find their way to the same countries in the North. It has been suggested that some go back, but since they have never been seen they must either travel by night or return in ones and twos. Mr. Williams' theory is that the migration of the butterflies resembles a kind of relay race, and that those that ultimately reach Iceland are many generations younger than those that first set out from Africa.—Tit-Bits.

Salt Old Symbol of "Wisdom and Grace"

Superstitions regarding salt were extremely numerous among the ancients, and the symbolism of salt is apparently one of the oldest among the early oriental nations. Salt is a symbol of "wisdom and grace," and of "perpetuity and incorruption." The oriental customs were to ratify compacts by salt. It was their emblem of friendship and fidelity. With it they made pledges of hospitality which were never to be violated. Salt was commended to the Jews to be used in sacrifices, and now some superstitious people carry first into a new home salt, a broom and a Bible. The salt is for pureness, the broom for cleanliness and the Bible for holiness. Salt has been indispensable to man as a seasoner and preserver of food from the earliest times. It has also been used for glazing pottery, for hardening soaps and for increasing the clearness of glass for many years. Soda, chlorine and other chemical substances are obtained from salt.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Those Wonderful Atoms

People often talk glibly about atoms without for a moment realizing what an atom really is. Its diameter is too small to be seen under an ordinary microscope. Atoms have been closely studied for over a century, and only within the last decade has it been possible to measure them. An atom is indivisible and is found to be very much like celestial solar systems in that it contains a central sun which is called the nucleus around which revolve from one to ninety-two planets called negative electrons. These move in orbits after the style of the planets. Small as the atom is its nucleus, which is charged with positive electricity, is so much smaller that there is enough space in an atom for 8,000,000,000 or more nuclei.—Family Herald.

Ancient Form of Torture

The boot was an instrument of torture formerly in use to extort confessions from suspected persons or obtain evidence from unwilling witnesses. It originated in Scotland, being known to have been employed there before 1600. The boot was made of iron, wood and iron, and was fastened on the leg, wedges being driven between the leg and the boot by blows from a mallet. After each blow a question was put to the victim and the ordeal was continued until he gave the information or fainted. There were also iron boots which were heated on the victim's foot. A less cruel form was a boot made wet and drawn upon the leg and then dried with fire.

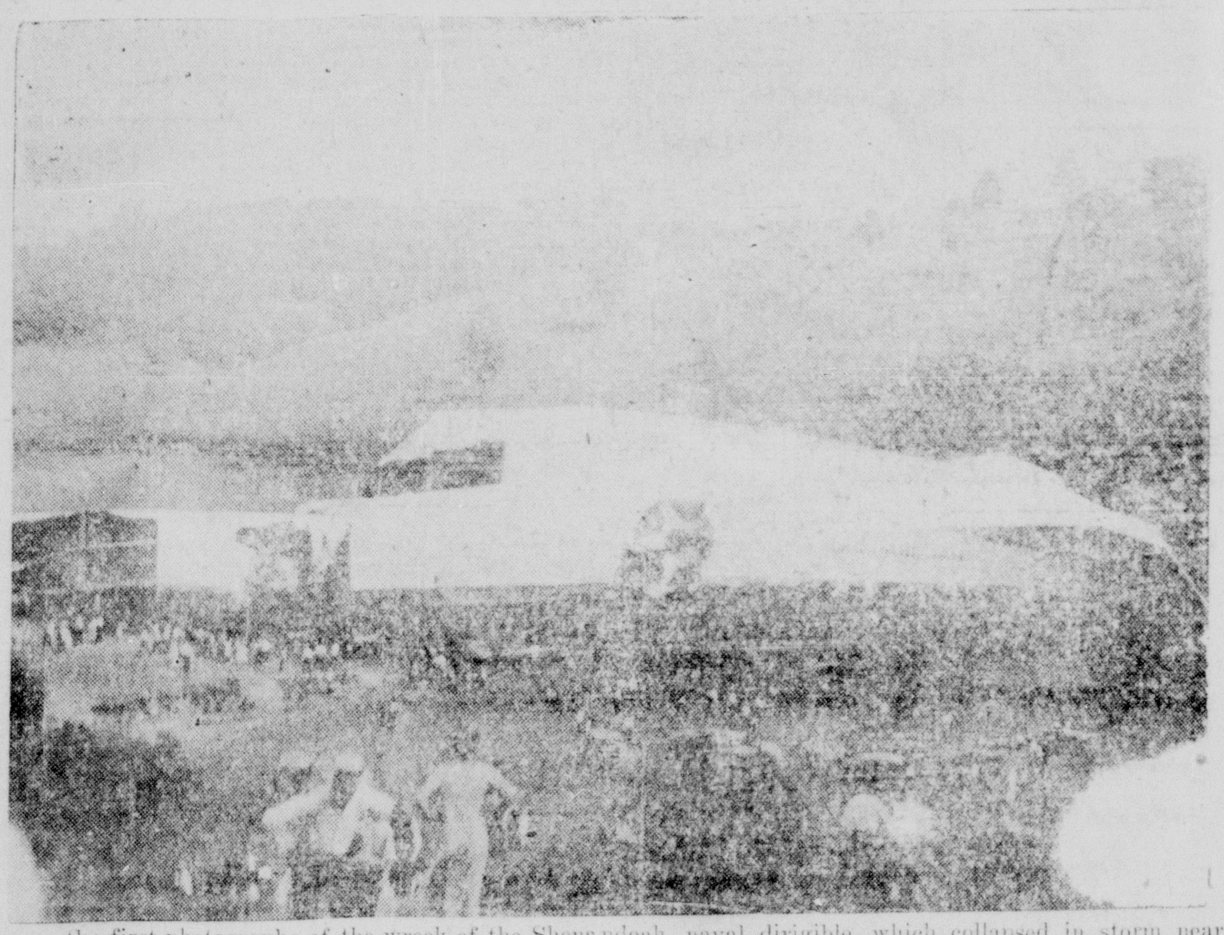
Pictures of the Wreck of the Shenandoah, Navy Dirigible

This NEA Service photograph shows a close-up of the wreckage of the framework of the ship. Compartive size of the men gives an idea of the immense proportions of the craft. The twists and contortions of the metal show the terrific strain to which the ship was subjected by the storm and the subsequent collission with the ground.



Here are the first photographs of the wreck of the Shenandoah, naval dirigible, which collapsed in storm near Ava, Ohio, early Thursday, killing 14 of the crew. The photographs were secured by NEA Service by making special airplane flight to the scene of disaster.

"Two Crashes, Then Shenandoah Was Broken In Two In Storm"

By LIEUT. W. L. RICHARDSON

Official Photographer, United States Navy Air Service and Survivor of the Dirigible Shenandoah Disaster.

Washington, Sept. 5.—Just two gigantic crashes, and the Shenandoah was destroyed as she tossed helplessly in the storm above Ohio.

Eighteen or twenty of us were huddled along the cat-walk in the after section of the ship, and after the second solid crash we found ourselves plunging, twisting and turning earthward for about 3,500 feet.

One crash came when the control car near the bow broke loose and fell, and the other when the big ship broke in two.

How we, who were in the after section, escaped with only minor injuries, no one can explain. We dropped to earth quickly, for our section of the ship carried the weight of all five motors and their power cars, as well as heavy storage tanks of gasoline.

When we struck, fortunately among some trees on a hill, two of the heavy motors and their cars were torn lose.

As we clung to supports inside the wreckage, the ship freed of the weight, bounded and twisted a half mile into the air. We whirled and turned for a mile and a half, then fell to earth again only about half mile from the scene of our first crash.

That time the ship stayed down. As it swept over the trees and was blown by the storm down the side of a hill we leaped and escaped.

Everyone Happy at Supper.

We had made a good start. Had taken some pictures as the Shenandoah flew over Philadelphia, but it was misty and cloudy. Later the tables were spread for supper. Commander Lansdowne and the other officers came in and sat down. All was serene and everybody was happy.

About 8 o'clock I turned in for sleep. My bunk was in the after section of the ship, between the gasoline tanks, and just beside the cat-walks running through the ship.

I do not know what time the storm first hit us. I was awakened at 5 o'clock by the pitching of the ship, but decided to get a little more rest.

About 5:45 o'clock the movements of the Shenandoah became more violent, particularly when she nosed down. It was a peculiar pitching, something I never before had experienced on the Shenandoah, even when she tore loose from her mooring mast in Lakehurst, or on my three journeys aboard the Los Angeles.

Hung In Midair.

Fifteen minutes more and a gust of cold air swept along the cat-walk. That must have been when the ship shot up to 7,000 feet.

Then she came down again to about 3,500 feet. There was no distinct motion inside the ship at anytime during this period.

A minute later the ship nosed up at a sharp angle. I clung to a rail beside my bunk and felt myself hanging in midair. Then came a series of crashes and the ship was torn apart.

The section we were in was about 400 feet long. As it fell all of us scrambled along the cat-walk toward the tail. We seemed to sense that was the safest place, and so it proved to be.

When we struck the earth at terrific velocity the two forward gondolas and motors were torn away with a big section of the dirigible. Bounding skyward again we found ourselves drifting tail first toward the east.

On this mad ride we clung to anything we could. Finally we skimmed some trees along the side of a hill. I looked through an aperture and saw the after engine car break loose and strike. I might have leaped then, but I could not tell just how far above the ground we were.

Dragged by Loose Wire.

Finally I climbed down the ladder to what had been engine car No. 1. Others crowded down on the ladder after me. My hands jammed between the rungs, but as we were about ten feet from the ground I tore them loose and dropped.

A wire looped itself about my ankle. I felt myself being dragged by a section of the ship a few scant feet overhead. But I managed to gain my feet, and stumbled ahead so that the wire was not taut and so freed myself.

The ship strewed its wreckage all along the hillside. It was a terrible sight. We scrambled about it to see if any were injured inside, but found all had escaped.

My next thought was for my cameras. I had two, and twenty-five dozen packs of film. I found them a half mile from the wreckage, and started to take them from their cases to shoot pictures, but they were smashed too badly.

As we turned and looked skyward we saw a sight I never will forget. Sailing through the storm 6,000 feet in the air was the nose portion of the ship. The control car was gone.

Buoyant and free from its weight the nose section disappeared into the early morning mists.

Then farmers came and took us to a physician. As soon as we were patched up we hurried to Caldwell, where we reported the disaster.

RULE CHANGES BETTER GAME

ROCKNE SAYS GRIDIRON SPORT MORE INTERESTING.

TWO RADICAL CHANGES

Penalty for Clipping Standardized—New Rule On Blocked Kicks Fairest Ever Made.

New York, Sept. 5.—Several important changes that were made last year in the football rules promise to make the great collegiate game more interesting than ever in the approaching season.

The changes can be outlined best and explained by the following article written by Knute Rockne, coach of the Notre Dame football team, for the "American Boy," and reprinted by its courtesy:

"Football is going to be a lot more fun for the fellows in the stands this year, and for players as well, because the ball is to be kicked from the 40-yard line instead of from midfield.

"Last year two radical changes in the kick-off were made. The tee which all good kickers used was declared illegal, and the ball was kicked from the 50-yard line. It was thought that eliminating the tee, and thus cutting down both height and distance of the ball's flight, would compensate for the 10-yard difference.

"But it didn't. Repeatedly high school and college kickers, accustoming themselves to a teeless kick-off, sent the ball over the goal line for a touchback. That meant that it was brought out to the 20-yard line and put in play. And one of the greatest thrills in football, the return of the kickoff, was almost entirely eliminated from the game.

"In only a few cases—'Red' Grange's 95-yard run at the start of the Illinois-Michigan game was one of them—were the spectators treated to the colorful thrilling sight of a man catching the ball, and ten others forming themselves into an interference in front of him to dash down the field. So the Football Rules Committee, conferring on 1925 rules, decided that henceforth kick-offs would be made from the 40-yard line without the tee.

"A major result of this rule change will be that teams will develop a strong kick-off return. Another important rule change is that affecting the penalty when the defensive team is offside. The penalty is five yards as before, but the down remains the same. Under the old rules, which penalized the offenders five yards and made it first down, unfair hardships were sometimes worked.

"To clarify a technical point, the line of scrimmage was redefined as a vertical plane between the two teams, rather than an imaginary line on the ground. This means that the heads of the linemen, as well as their hands and all other parts of their bodies must be back of the line of scrimmage.

"The penalty in clipping has been standardized with the same purpose—to avoid misunderstanding. When a man 'clips' an opponent—that is, throws his body across the legs of the other fellow from behind and brings him down—his team is penalized 25 yards from the spot where the clipping took place. Last year the captain of the side against which the clipping was committed had a choice of two penalties—15 yards from the point of clipping, or 15 yards from the place where the play started. The new penalty is not necessarily more severe, but it is now standard.

"The new rule on blocked kicks is the fairest yet devised. Its first provision is that a punted ball blocked behind the line of scrimmage belongs to which ever side recovers, but counts a down against the kickers if that side recovers. Formerly a blocked kick recovered by the kickers meant first down.

On a partly blocked kick which crosses the line of scrimmage, the ball is played exactly as if it had never been touched. This rule is intended as a clarification.

"Other new rules are of minor importance. One of them provides that trainers and doctors may go onto the field as soon as a man is hurt, reporting to referee or umpire before speaking to the man. The old rule required doctors and trainers to get permission from an official before stepping on the field, and in some cases, like that last fall when an Army player had to go through two plays with a badly smashed foot before the doctor could catch the umpire's eye, worked out badly.

"The 'time out' rule has been altered slightly to provide that when a man is injured, time is called and a substitute goes in, it counts as one of the team's four 'times out' in the half unless the team has already called for time four times. This is intended to speed up the game slightly.

"The recommendation of the Rules Committee that high school games be played in four 12-minute quarters, instead of in 15-minute quarters, is a mighty wise one. The average high school team is not as husky and well-conditioned as a college or university team, and elevens of younger fellows should profit by this advice.

"The Rules Committee did well, in my opinion and that of all the coaches to whom I've talked, to limit their rules changes to details. There are always a lot of football fanatics who want to introduce sets of rules to make the game more like soccer, or more like rugby, or more like tiddle-de-winks bobbing up each fall. But none of the new rules is of that classification. Football is a good game now, a heathful, sportsmanlike game, and undue tampering with its rules can do nothing but harm."
